SAFE AND SOUND

AAA CHICAGO BEGAN SPONSORING a unique safety campaign this summer, when ground was broken in Bolingbrook, Ill., for the first “Fortified ... for safer living” home in the central United States.

Special construction materials and techniques increase the home’s overall disaster-resistance significantly above the minimum requirements of local building codes. Extra attention is given to vulnerable areas, including doors, windows, roof construction and the foundation. Participating in the event, left to right, are John R. Ball, president National Academy of Building Inspection Engineers; Brad Roeber, field vice president Auto Club Insurance Association; Bolingbrook Mayor Roger C. Claar; AAA Chicago Motor Club president and COO Steve Bernth; and Grant Ripper, president Dukane Precast, the company building the home in the Heritage Knolls development.
